

Corporate Literacy Leadership

Supporting Washtenaw Literacy as a Corporate Literacy Leader sends a powerful message that your company is a key presence in the community. Studies show that corporate philanthropy strengthens ties with employees. Illiteracy among adults is a root cause of poverty, homelessness, hunger, unemployment and health issues. Washtenaw Literacy is committed to building strong, mutually beneficial relationships with corporate partners.

Changing Lives, One Word at a Time

In 1971 a small group of passionate volunteers adopted the 'each one, teach one' model to improve literacy among adult neighbors. Forty-four years later, Washtenaw Literacy is Michigan's first and largest literacy council. We train and support over 500 volunteer tutors who served over 2100 learners in Washtenaw County last year.

It is Washtenaw Literacy's MISSION to provide free literacy instruction customized to the needs of adults utilizing a trained network of volunteer tutors. It is our VISION to eliminate illiteracy in Washtenaw County.

Driving Literacy is a highly-anticipated, lively gala celebrating adult literacy. Over three hundred guests attend the annual event held in the beautiful Morris Lawrence Building at Washtenaw Community College. The signature activity is the live and silent auction led by Steve Gross of Premier Auction Services. Past Honorary Hosts have included Lloyd Carr, Devin Scillian, Rochelle Riley and Senator Carl Levin. The 17th annual event will be a Royal Masquerade featuring live jazz and hilarious custom gaming.

A closer look at Washtenaw Literacy

Washtenaw Literacy's programs serve adults 16 and older who need to improve their reading, writing, numeracy or communication in English through three broad programs:

- ❖ Skills First – basic skill building in reading, writing, math, English communication and digital literacy
- ❖ Education Now – educational attainment, earning a GED, or accessing secondary training programs
- ❖ Workforce Ready – developing literacy-based workforce competencies

In the 2013-2014 program year we served 2177 Washtenaw County adults, 8% of the estimated need:

- ✓ 89% of our learners live below the federal poverty guidelines
- ✓ 76% of our learners were unemployed or under-employed
- ✓ 61% of our learners were parents

Washtenaw Literacy programs have consistently demonstrated results for forty-two years. For example, in one ten-week session of our Skills Building program the average beginning reading level among participants was 4th grade. After 20 hours of one-to-one tutoring, the average gain was 2.25 grade levels. After another 20 hours of one-to-one tutoring the average gain was another 2.65 grades for a final average reading level of grade 8.9. Every participant moved on to either completing a GED or passing the COMPASS test for entrance to Washtenaw Community College. Sample gains include:

- ✓ 100% - improving their literacy or English skills and meeting at least 2 literacy goals
- ✓ 91% - feeling more confident
- ✓ 62% - reporting they are more successful at work
- ✓ 41% - understanding details from their doctor better

ABCs of Washtenaw Literacy | Brownbag Lunch Presentation

Make your sponsorship even more meaningful! Washtenaw Literacy needs volunteer tutors. If your employees are passionate about community engagement, they would be excited to learn about the issue of illiteracy in Washtenaw County, and how they can become involved.

Washtenaw Literacy's fast-paced and moving presentation, the ABCs of Washtenaw Literacy, provides an overview of the problem, and all the ways someone can become a tutor or volunteer. The presentation takes between 30 to 60 minutes, depending on the time-constraints, and is a perfect program for a lunch session. Presentations are not fund-raisers, we do not ask for financial support. We acquaint prospective volunteers with very rewarding opportunities, and we help build your team through your employees shared engagement.
