

Communicating our Passion

What's Your Story?

Story telling is one of the best ways to connect with others, share what we do at Washtenaw Literacy and illustrate why literacy is critical for a sustainable community.

Sharing your story of literacy is a great way to ensure that Washtenaw Literacy will continue to thrive and impact the live of thousands of learners and their families each year.

A good story can make you laugh, cry and want to get involved. In this workshop we will explore different types of stories and help you craft your personal story to share with others.

Tuesday, February 5, 1-3 pm at NEW Center
1100 N Main St, Ann Arbor, MI 48104
Register at www.WashtenawLiteracy.org

About the Presenter:

Nick Lacy is the current Director of Individual and Corporate Giving at Washtenaw Literacy. Before coming to Washtenaw Literacy, he spent four years teaching high school in St. Louis, spent nine years in sales and has worked in the Ann Arbor Public Schools as a Title

Everyone has a story to tell.
What's yours?